S. America: Anti-Refugee Action

The security organizations of several South American countries may be cooperating in actions against political refugees in Argentina.

Early this month, armed men ransacked the offices of the Argentine Catholic Commission on Immigration and stole records containing information on thousands of refugees and immigrants. Argentine police did not investigate the crime and dismissed it as a simple robbery.

Two days later, 24 Uruguayan and Chilean refugees, many of whom were the subjects of Commission files, were kidnaped and tortured for several hours. Some of the refugees later identified their interrogators as security officers from Chile and Uruguay. Presumably, a Chilean-Uruguayan operation could not have been undertaken without the cooperation of the Argentine security forces.

In the past few weeks, two prominent Uruguayan political exiles and a former leftist president of Bolivia have been killed under mysterious circumstances in Argentina.

There are also several reports that Chilean leftist leader Edgardo Enriquez, who was arrested by Argentine security forces on April 10, was subsequently turned over to the Chileans and is now dead. Meanwhile, the Brazilian press reports that Argentina has handed over to Chilean authorities a Brazilian political exile wanted by Santiago.

The Argentine junta has denied allegations that it has violated "human rights" and recently issued an official communique declaring that it would not repatriate refugees by force. Despite this and similar disclaimers by respected Argentine leaders, [redacted] in Buenos Aires suspects the acquiescence, and perhaps the direct involvement, of the Argentine security forces in many of these incidents.
