During these last years, the International Organizations of Human Rights, Jurists Organizations and Parliamentary Commissions of several european and american countries have received reiterated protests concerning the systematic violations of Human Rights and International Agreements which are being developed by Uruguayan Government.

Since 1974, the Uruguayan Government is kidnapping political refugees in Argentina. The action of Uruguayan Security Forces in co-ordination with Argentine's has ended several times in the assassination of their victims.

More than fifteen uruguayan citizens have appeared dead either in Uruguayan or Argentine territory. In spite of that, authorities of both countries have never started a single investigation to find out the responsibility of their Security Services in those kidnappings and assassinations. Several Habeas Corpus ressorts were interposed by lawyers and relatives but none of them have had any result. Whenever Security Forces are asked for information these requests are always answered in the same way: the person looked for is not detained in any Police or Army Department.

Since 1976, the "disappearances" of citizens have become a systematic practice of the Uruguayan Government, in and out of frontiers. Consequently at the beginning of 1979 there are more than one hundred people kidnapped, and from whom no more news have been obtained.

It is necessary to emphasize, then, a double violation of the rules of International Law: the first one, that most of the opposers who were in exile in Argentine were under the protection of the United Nations High Commissariat for Refugees (U.N.H.C.R.). The second one, it has been largely proved the practice of illegal deportation of political refugees towards their home country, fact that is a violation of the universal principle which stipulates the relation between Uruguay and the rest of the countries.

"The delivery of refugees to authorities of their country of origin, in violation of Human Rights Conventions and other internationally accepted principles and norms, with the knowledge that such return poses grave risks to these persons, including placing their lives in danger, is certainly an act that involves the responsibility not only of the authorities of the country that makes possible or permits such delivery, but also of the country that requests (these refugees) return".

CIDH, 1976 ANNUAL REPORT, supra at 18

In the report mentioned above, the American jurist adds:

"The principle of nonreturn of refugees is therefore the cornerstone of the Convention and all State parties to that instrument accept that principle as a binding legal obligation".

Together with Argentina, Paraguay and Brazil, Uruguay is a signatory country.

In February 1978, while the meeting of the United Nations Commission of Human Rights, a group of relatives was present at Geneva to denounce the desperate situation of the "disappearances". In that occasion, the Commission determined to include Uruguay in the item 12B as a country which shows a flagrant degree of violation of Human Rights.

Considering that the situation of "disappearances" has not only continued but also got worse during 1978, the relatives, with the experience of last February community action, have decided to organize an "Association of Relatives of Uruguayan Disappeared People" (AFUDE), whose constitution meeting was held in Paris in October 1st, 1978.

The following file, containing the list of Uruguayan citizens "disappeared", was made by AFUDE gathering all the information joined until now. We hope this information will be useful for the delegates to this Commission to increase their knowledge on the dramatic reality of our country.

We expect, finally, that this 35th. meeting of the United Nations Commission of Human Rights will issue a resolution which may be more effective to help to put an end to this situation.

The following list of Uruguayans "disappeared" gathers all the information we have been able to obtain from several solidarity and Human Rights Organizations. It also includes testimonial information which was obtained from people who is actually living in Europe as refugees and have brought information about kidnapped citizens.

Sometimes we were asked to keep these testimonies in anonymity. Because of the repressive situation in the countries of the Southern Cone our informers feared the possibility of revenge upon their families who are still living there or upon the prisoners themselves.
